Expert Blog: Improving Digital Skills In The Voluntary, Community and Social Enterprise (VCSE) Sector

If someone wanted to support your organisation, could they easily find and click a donate button online? Do your social media channels engage new audiences and keep current supporters involved? A recent blog by Sarah Perry at Idox on the GRANTfinder website is well worth a read if you feel your digital presence could be improved. Sarah explains the importance of futureproofing your digital communications, the benefits of a good website and how to build or improve your website.

Civil Society: Free Download: Risk management Is More Than Just A Box Ticking Exercise

Most organisations now have risk registers, and some organisations make good use of these formal processes to have a meaningful discussion about risk. However, it is important to remember that risk registers do not manage risks, they merely identify them. How can charities of all sizes navigate the challenge of balancing risk and opportunity? Download the white paper to find out more Risk management Is More Than Just A Box Ticking Exercise
